Forward

Welcome to the "Parent Activity Handbook: 100 Standards-Aligned Family Engagement Activities for Schools" brought to you by Project Appleseed! This year marks a special milestone as we celebrate the 30th anniversary of our signature event, National Parental Involvement Day, established in 1994 as part of our advocacy for parental involvement provisions in the renewal of Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

In today's educational landscape, the importance of family engagement cannot be overstated. Research consistently demonstrates that when families are involved in their children's education, students thrive academically and socially. This handbook is a curated collection of impactful activities and strategies designed to inspire educators, parents, grandparents, and caring adults to actively participate in enhancing student success and fostering a culture of school improvement.

Why Family Engagement Matters

High-impact family engagement activities serve as a cornerstone for student achievement and holistic development. By involving families in educational endeavors, we achieve several critical objectives:

Improved Academic Outcomes

Studies consistently show that students whose families are engaged in their education perform better academically. This effect is particularly pronounced for students from disadvantaged backgrounds, underscoring the importance of inclusive and equitable engagement strategies.

Enhanced Communication

Family engagement activities facilitate open lines of communication between schools and families. Effective communication ensures that families are informed and empowered to support their children's learning journey.

Building Strong Relationships

Engagement initiatives foster relationships between schools, families, and communities. Strong relationships build trust, which is essential for collaborative efforts aimed at student success. (Continued)

Empowering Communities for Student Success

As you explore this handbook, you'll discover a wealth of innovative ideas and activities spanning various dimensions of family engagement, from welcoming initiatives to collaborative community endeavors. Each activity is designed to strengthen the educational ecosystem and foster a sense of shared responsibility for student achievement.

We invite you to leverage this handbook as a catalyst for change in your school community. Whether you are an educator seeking to enhance parental involvement or a parent eager to contribute to your child's educational journey, this resource offers practical insights and actionable strategies to promote collaboration and drive positive outcomes.

Together, let's embrace the transformative power of family engagement and pave the way for every child's success. Thank you for your dedication to advancing education and fostering inclusive school environments.

Make every day parental involvement day in America.

Sincerely,

Kevin Walker
President & founder

Increased Involvement

Engaged families are more likely to participate in school events, volunteer, and actively contribute to decision-making processes. This involvement strengthens the overall fabric of the school community.

Effective family engagement goes beyond just implementing proven strategies. It's about fostering a culture of enthusiasm and excitement about parenting within the school and the wider school community. By celebrating and prioritizing the crucial role of families in their children's education, we can inspire and mobilize the entire community to help every student succeed.

Project Appleseed's Six Slices of Family

Engagement aligns with National Standards for Family-School Partnerships. Project Appleseed is committed to aligning its efforts with the National Standards for Family-School Partnerships established by the PTA. These standards provide a framework for cultivating effective partnerships between schools, families, and communities. By adhering to these standards, we empower stakeholders with the tools and resources necessary to create equitable and inclusive educational environments.

Our hallmark events, National Parental Involvement Day and Public School Volunteer Week are the inspiration behind thousands of family engagement activities. They have been enthusiastically celebrated by schools, school districts, PTAs, PTOs, every state education agency, nonprofit organizations, and the U.S. Department of Education. In this handbook, we have compiled a selection of 100 outstanding school activities that were conducted during these signature events. These activities can be enjoyed at any time to honor and emphasize the vital role of families in their children’s education.

Slice 1: Welcome All Families

The school treats families as valued partners in their child’s education and facilitates a sense of belonging in the school community.

Goal 1. Build a Community of Belonging: When families engage with the school and PTA/PTO, do they feel respected, understood, and connected to the school?

School & Parent Group Indicators:

- Learn about families and foster respect.
- Provide time, training, and resources for relationship-building.
- Facilitate opportunities for restoration and connection, especially with historically marginalized families and students.
- Use culturally and linguistically responsive engagement practices.
- Invite families to contribute to the school community.

Six Slices of Family Engagement

Project Appleseed is aligned with Joyce Epstein's Framework of Six Types of Parental Involvement and the updated PTA National Standards for Family-School Partnerships

Goal 2. Create an Inclusive Environment: Do the school’s and PTA/PTO’s efforts encourage engagement with and among the diversity of families in the community?

School & Parent Group Indicators:

- Encourage school staff to see engaging all families as part of their responsibilities.
- Create an accessible, family-friendly campus and/or virtual school
- Track family engagement data and regularly examine it to identify gaps in access.
- Learn about and remove barriers for families to participate fully.

Welcoming Committee for New Families

The Welcoming Committee for New Families is a caring and proactive initiative aimed at ensuring a seamless transition for families who are new to our school community. Led by our dedicated committee members, this program offers personalized support and guidance to newcomers, helping them feel welcomed and valued from the very beginning.

November 16 is National Parental Involvement Day, the perfect day to host an open house for The Parent Center! Drop in TODAY from 11am-4pm to see the new location at 350 School Drive. Meet the staff and check out all the great resources offered to our parents.

Our committee members are friendly and approachable, ready to assist new families with any questions or concerns they may have. They provide introductions to key staff members, including teachers, administrators, and support personnel, fostering important connections and easing the process of getting acquainted with the school environment.

In addition to personal introductions, our committee offers valuable information about school programs, extracurricular activities, and community events. This ensures that new families are well-informed and empowered to make informed decisions about their child's education and involvement in school life.

Coffee with the Principal

This is an engaging school activity that provides parents and guardians with a unique opportunity to connect with the school's principal in a relaxed and informal setting. This event typically takes place in a comfortable space within the school, such as the library or cafeteria, and is designed to encourage open dialogue and foster positive relationships between school leadership and families.

During "Coffee with the Principal," parents are invited to join the principal for a casual morning or afternoon session over coffee and light refreshments. The atmosphere is welcoming and conducive to conversation, allowing parents to ask questions, share feedback, and express any concerns they may have about their child's education or school environment.

The principal may use this time to discuss important school updates, upcoming events, academic programs, or initiatives. It's also an excellent opportunity for the principal to listen to parents' perspectives, gain insights into their experiences with the school, and address any specific issues or inquiries raised by attendees.

This activity not only strengthens the relationship between families and school leadership but also demonstrates the principal's commitment to parent engagement and collaboration. By fostering open communication and partnership, "Coffee with the Principal" contributes to a supportive school community where families feel valued and involved in their children's education.

Metrics: Schools that Count

Schools can count the number of parent and family volunteers by using a standard hourly rate to calculate the value of the time contributed by parents and families. The average value of volunteer time is $29.95 an hour. This is based on the Independent Sector's value of volunteer time, which is an annually updated estimate of the average hourly value of volunteer time in the United States.

By tracking the number of volunteer hours contributed by parents and family members and multiplying that number by the hourly rate, schools can estimate the monetary value of the time these volunteers have donated to the school. For example, if a parent volunteers for 10 hours in a month, that would be equivalent to a donation of nearly $300 based on the hourly rate of $29.95.

Did you know that during the last school year, more than 14,000 individuals volunteered in our schools? We appreciate everything these community members do to support our schools!

Family School Spirit Day serves as a platform for parents to play an active role in shaping the school environment. Through their involvement, parents contribute to creating a positive and supportive atmosphere that benefits everyone in the school community.

Parent Orientation Day

Our comprehensive Parent Orientation Day provides new families with essential information about our school culture, curriculum, and resources. It's an opportunity to connect with staff and fellow parents, fostering a sense of belonging and support.

By encouraging parents to take the Parent Engagement Pledge, schools can increase the number of volunteers and the total value of volunteer time contributed. This can have a positive impact on the school community, as it fosters a sense of collaboration, shared responsibility for the success of the students and accountability for all.

The Red Carpet Treatment!

Welcome families to your school with the Red Carpet Treatment, an innovative tool designed to create a more welcoming environment for all families. As part of the Family Engagement Toolbox, the Red Carpet Treatment is a family-friendly walk-through process that brings educators, parents, community members, school board members, and administrators together to identify ways to improve the school for families.

By taking the time to walk through the school and consider how it looks and feels through the lenses of all families, including parents of children with disabilities, you can create an environment that truly welcomes and supports every family. This toolkit provides a step-by-step guide to conduct the walk-through, and the checklists and questions to use during the process.

Celebrate Dads' Involvement

One way to engage fathers and male role models is through "Donuts for Dads" events. Invite fathers and other male role models to come to the school for a morning treat and a chance to spend time with their child in the classroom. Encourage teachers to plan activities for fathers to participate in alongside their children, such as reading a book together or working on a craft project.

Not only will this create a positive and fun atmosphere for the students, but it will also give fathers an opportunity to see firsthand the work their children are doing and how they can support their learning at home. Be sure to promote the event through flyers and social media and reach out to local media outlets to get the word out to the community.

Family Engagement Game for Change

Join us for an exciting evening of fun and learning with our special "Game Night" for parents! Whether it's through thought-provoking discussions, hands-on activities, or friendly competitions, participants will be encouraged to explore new ideas, reflect on their experiences, and embrace innovative approaches—all in a fun and supportive environment.

The overarching goal of "Game Night" is to provide parents with a platform to collaborate, share their perspectives, and co-create learning experiences that resonate with their unique backgrounds and expertise. By integrating gaming into the framework of professional development, we aim to empower parents to become active contributors to their child's educational journey, fostering stronger connections between home and school.

Culturally and linguistically responsive family engagement practices recognize and respect the cultural and linguistic diversity of families, and aim to create a welcoming and inclusive environment that encourages parental involvement.

When educators and schools use culturally and linguistically responsive family engagement practices, they demonstrate an understanding and appreciation of families' cultural backgrounds and linguistic needs. This, in turn, can help to build trust and create stronger relationships between families and schools, which can lead to increased parental involvement.

For example, when schools provide materials and resources in families' native languages, parents who may not be fluent in English are better able to understand the curriculum and communicate with teachers.

Parent-Teacher Meet & Greet

Parent-Teacher Meet & Greet events provide a valuable opportunity for parents to establish direct connections with their child's teachers in a relaxed and informal atmosphere. These gatherings are designed to foster open communication and collaboration between parents and educators, ultimately enhancing the academic experience for students.

During a Parent-Teacher Meet & Greet, parents have the chance to engage in meaningful conversations with teachers about their child's academic progress, goals, and any concerns they may have. This direct interaction allows parents to gain insights into their child's learning environment and educational journey.

The event encourages proactive discussions on strategies for academic success, enabling parents and teachers to work together to support the student's development. By sharing perspectives and exchanging ideas, parents can contribute to tailored approaches that meet their child's unique needs.

Beyond academic discussions, Parent-Teacher Meet & Greet events promote relationship-building and trust between families and educators. Building strong connections between home and school positively impacts student motivation and achievement.

Home-to-School Communication

Promote parent engagement in school activities by creating opportunities for open communication and feedback. Encourage parents to share their thoughts and suggestions on school-related topics through various channels, such as suggestion boxes, surveys, focus groups, and online forums. Make it easy for parents to connect with the school and have their voices heard by providing clear and accessible ways for them to share their input. By actively seeking out and valuing parent feedback, schools can work towards creating a more inclusive and responsive environment for students and families.

Parental Involvement Checklist

Take the first step towards improving your school's parent-school partnerships with Project Appleseed's Parental Involvement Checklist. This valuable resource, available on our website, is designed to help you evaluate your school's current efforts to reach out to parents and identify areas for improvement.

The checklist guides you through key questions to help you understand the effectiveness of your partnership's practices at each grade level. It also helps you identify which practices are working well and which need improvement or should be added. Additionally, it encourages you to think about the long-term goals for your school's family involvement practices, and how you envision them to look in three years from now.

Reaching Out to Parents Over Brown Bag Lunches

Bringing together parents, community members, and school administrators over a brown-bag lunch is a great way to foster better relationships and keep everyone informed. By inviting parents and community members to these informal gatherings, school administrators can gain valuable insights into the community and improve relations with parents.

Superintendents and principals have found that brown-bag lunch chats are an effective public relations program that provides an opportunity to give the school's perspective on issues and provide factual information. The informal setting allows for open and honest conversations and helps to break down barriers and build stronger connections between the school and community.

So why not try it out in your school or district? It's a simple, yet effective way to improve communication and understanding between the school and community. Reach out to parents and community members and invite them to a brown-bag lunch chat and see the positive impact it can have on your school and district."

Evaluate Your Efforts!

The five-item Parent Perceptions of Overall School Experiences Scale is a brief, universal measure of parents' perceptions of their overall experiences with their children's schools. Schools, parents, and community members may use this measure to assess parents' needs and to advocate for necessary programmatic changes that serve parents and their children.

Provide open lines of communication for receiving comments and suggestions from parents on school related topics, and build the school's capacity to route this information to the intended persons. Establish multiple mechanisms for gathering opinions from parents, students, and teachers, such as on-site suggestion boxes, annual parent surveys, random- sample parent phone surveys, parent/teacher focus groups, and school-sponsored parent blogs.

Brand and Communicate Your School's Event

Create a unique name for your National Parental Involvement Day & Public School Volunteer Week event that represents your school or community. Getting Started Ask Families to Take the Pledge!

Our comprehensive Parent Engagement Pledge asks parents to volunteer 10 hours each in their local school and spend 15 minutes each night reading with their children, creating a positive impact in the education of their children. But the benefits don't stop there, by distributing the pledge to parents during parent-teacher conferences or teacher home visits, you can achieve a response rate approaching 80%. But the real value comes from the economic impact of the pledge. According to U.S. Department of Education data, 43% of K-12 parents volunteer at school. Independent Sector has announced that the estimated value of a volunteer hour in the United States reached $29.95 in 2022. That means, that each parent who takes the Parent Engagement Pledge is generating $300.00 in volunteer impact. Imagine the impact if 43% of the families in your community volunteered in your schools by taking the pledge! That's an impact of over $100,000 for your school. The cost of the pledge is only $400.00 for a Family Engagement Toolbox, a small price to pay for such a significant impact on your school community.

Parental Involvement Report Card

Project Appleseed offers the Parental Involvement Report Card as a self-assessment tool to help parents evaluate their involvement in their child's education. The report card, consisting of 30 questions, can serve as a guide for parents to identify ways they can support their child both at home and at school. Schools can easily distribute the report card to all families by purchasing Project Appleseed's Parental Involvement Toolbox. This tool is an excellent way to encourage parents to be more involved in their child's education, and it's a simple and easy way to get started.

Celebrate Reading

Make reading a fun and engaging part of everyday life with National Parental Involvement Day & Public School Volunteer Week activities that promote community literacy. Whether you organize storytelling nights, invite guest authors and poets to share their work, create read-aloud programs, host book fairs and drives, or plan family literacy nights, there are many ways to encourage reading and learning in your community.

One great way to get students excited about reading is to involve older students as reading tutors. Partner with local colleges and universities to recruit work-study students and other college students as reading tutors. This not only provides valuable support for younger students, but it also helps to promote a culture of reading and learning within the community. Encourage older student groups such as Girl Scouts to volunteer as reading tutors and make a positive impact on the learning of the younger students.

For many, parents are often our first & most influential teachers.

Parents, your voice & partnership are critical to student success. Thank you for all you do to support educators & our schools. #NationalParentalInvolvementDay

Promote parental involvement by recognizing and honoring those who have made significant contributions to education in your community. Host a special ceremony to present awards to parents, community leaders, and local government officials who have demonstrated a strong commitment to supporting students and families. Consider categories such as "Outstanding Parent Involvement," "Community Partner of the Year," and "Government Official of the Year." By highlighting the positive impact of these individuals, you can inspire others to get involved and make a difference in the lives of students. Don't forget to share the event and the awardees on social media to show appreciation and recognize their contributions.

The event can also serve as an opportunity for parents to meet and socialize with each other, and for children to learn about the importance of caring for their environment.

It's Pre-K Beautification Day! Thank you to our awesome Pre-K team and parent volunteers who volunteered their time to make our outdoor space and beautiful place to work and play! #PublicSchoolVolunteerWeek
